Come and hear 12 alumni tell how their social sciences degrees launched meaningful careers

So you’ve chosen a major in social sciences. Where do you go from here? We’ve invited alumni from the economics, ethnic studies, political science, and sociology programs to share their career paths, talk about lessons learned, and answer your questions about the opportunities awaiting you and how you can best position yourself for success. Find out how to make a smooth transition from college to career in this stimulating and interactive night.
